Gillian, Peter and Matthew McGivern will be presented with the:

“2018 National Welsh Pub of the Year award” by CAMRA

At 4.30pm on Saturday 25th October at the Bridge End Inn, where their renown for brewing their own beer began.

No doubt all their loyal customers and friends, that are able, will be joining in the celebrations, as one of our local pubs in Ruabon receives this prestigious award.

The Second Defibrillator, for use by the public in an emergency situation, is now in place on the High Street, on the wall between Mc.Calls News Agents and the Kebab Shop.

This defibrillator has been funded by the community who have given generously, together with donations from the pupils of Ysgol Rhiwabon and the owner of The Vaults Pub.

Mc.Calls newsagents kindly agreed to supplying the electricity and its installation. Friends of Ruabon have worked with Welsh Ambulance throughout the procedure from the idea to the installation of this equipment which has become a truly "Ruabon Village Enterprise".

Grove Park Theatre's Centenary Commemoration of The Great War

Join us in 2018 at Grove Park Theatre as we present two exceptional one-act plays where we remember the efforts of our veterans during World War I.

Hero by Michael J Lynch is set in 1916 in a British casualty clearing station. A young soldier has been brought to the hospital after being found critically wounded. The staff battle to make his final hours as comfortable as possible. News arrives of the soldier's possible desertion and it soon becomes a case of should the Private be made to face the charges served or should he be able to die a hero?

Our Friends, The Enemy by Alex Gwyther is a one-man show set during the Christmas Day Truce of 1914. Join us on the Western Front where lights appear from the German trenches, ghosts rise from the horizon and soldiers meet between the firing lines.

Two amateur productions presented by arrangement with Samuel French Limited.

A controversial litter enforcement firm has been told by Wrexham council that its contract will end early.

It followed the revelation that not a single fine was issued by Kingdom Services in August and September this year.

Its arrangement will end on 28 December - rather than in May next year. The firm has been asked to comment.

The council warned it meant limited litter enforcement would be carried out until new arrangements were in place.

Wrexham's head environmental officer, Lawrence Isted, said Kingdom had acknowledged receipt of the termination notice and that new enforcement activity had already stopped.

Council officials said they were examining sharing the service with the neighbouring Flintshire authority, according to the Local Democracy Reporting Service.

However, the council's executive board was also told that while the Kingdom Service contract came at no cost to the authority, any replacement service could "place a pressure on already stretched departmental and corporate budgets".

- Council urged to bin litter fine firm
- Half of litter firm's contracts dropped
- Anger over adventure park litter fines

Complaints about Kingdom Services' approach to the £75 litter fines led to a public protest in the town in September.

A report to the council also said that while there had been a crackdown on littering in the past, Kingdom had failed to tackle dog fouling.

The cross-party committee found that only 39 fines were handed out for fouling between November 2017 and May 2018, compared to 2,267 for littering.

Plaid Cymru councillor Marc Jones said the decision was "long overdue".

"Kingdom did not ensure our streets were cleaner - they did not tackle dog fouling or flytipping," he said.

Licensing powers on 'fracking' transferred to Wales

The Cabinet Secretary for Energy, Planning and Rural Affairs, Lesley Griffiths, has welcomed the devolution of onshore petroleum licensing to Wales from today.

Sunday 30 September 2018

Environment and countryside 30 September 2018

The Cabinet Secretary set out her preferred policy in July, that the Welsh Government would not support any applications for hydraulic fracturing, or "fracking" consents, or undertake any new petroleum licensing in Wales.

A consultation has since been held on petroleum extraction, which closed on 25 September. The consultation received more than 1,800 responses. The Welsh Government will now consider the feedback to the consultation before confirming its future policy by the end of the year. The Welsh Government has put a Notification Direction in place so that local authorities cannot approve planning applications for unconventional oil and gas, including fracking, without Welsh Ministers' approval. This supports the Welsh Government's opposition to unconventional extraction.

The Welsh Government has been working with UK Government and the UK Oil & Gas Authority to ensure a smooth transfer of the powers. Lesley Griffiths said:

"Burning fossil fuels is the number one contributor to global warming and there is overwhelming scientific evidence which shows how climate change is damaging our planet. Instead of exploring new ways to extract fossil fuels, we should be investing in renewable forms of energy.

"As a Government, we must responsibly manage our natural resources in a way that meets the needs of the people of Wales, not just today, but into the future.

"I would like to thank everyone who provided their feedback to the consultation and I expect to announce the Welsh Government's policy by the end of the year."

The Welsh Government Onshore Petroleum Licensing web page launched on 1st October.

Scam Attempts - Please be Vigilant and pass information on to others

Dear Watch Member,

We have been made aware of a number of scams, which we would like to advise residents of. These include:

Flintshire residents have been receiving telephone calls from persons claiming to be from HMRC (HM Customs and Revenue). The calls are automated and state that there is a 'lawsuit' against them and that they owe money. The calls also claim that there is an 'arrest warrant' for the resident. The message asks the resident to press 1 to speak with their 'case worker'. We would like to remind residents that this is a scam. It is an attempt to steal money from you. HMRC would never contact you in this way. Please click on the link below for more information <https://www.actionfraud.police.uk/alert/alert-fraudsters-claiming-to-be-from-hmrc>

Wrexham Trading Standards have been made aware of a potential scam involving someone agreeing to purchase a vehicle advertised for sale on Ebay. The purchaser asks for you to pay a courier who will collect the vehicle and you will be reimbursed via paypal. An email is received from paypal confirming this payment. The courier may not exist and the paypal email may be a fake. Advice from Trading Standards is to never pay any money to anyone for something you are selling.

To help prevent others being a victim of these scam attempts please pass this information onto those who do not have access to these OWL alerts. Where possible, please encourage them to register for the OWL alerts directly.

Police are urging residents to report suspicious behavior and keep an eye out for vulnerable neighbors after thieves targeted three homes in the Wrexham area last night. Elderly residents had money stolen from their homes as the thieves broke in through the back doors of houses in Garden View, Ruabon at 7.45pm, Clayton Road, Pentre Broughton at 8.08pm and Tan-Yr-Allt Cefn-y-Bedd at 8.30pm.

DI Mark Hughes said; "We are linking these crimes and I would ask people to look out for their neighbors as these thieves are using the twilight hours to target addresses.
